At the Coast Tsawwassen Inn

1665 56 St, Delta, British Columbia, Canada, V4L 2B2

Morning program: Hish uuk nish tsawaak - We Are All Connected

Come along with Cynthia and Judith as they traverse the Common Ground and wonderful connections which they have been able to discover, between First Nations and Colonial cultures, in order to serve the health and wellness of both cultures. How can we as Therapeutic Touch teachers and practitioners better understand these dynamics to use their inspirational differences to create even deeper, age-old wisdom and teachings in our Therapeutic Touch sessions? Join this colourful duo as they journey along this most unique of TT paths together ...in the common goal of connecting through healing compassion.

Judith Schweer, BA, TTRT, QTTT and Cynthia Blackstone

Afternoon program: Connecting with the Human Energy Field

As we center in Therapeutic Touch, we create a connection to the human energy field of the Healing partner (Hp). The human energy field attempts to communicate to us what is out of balance. We may perceive this through cues from the physical, mental, emotional or spiritual fields which manifests in our body, our thoughts and our feelings. Our Healing Partner may be aware that they are in need of balancing due to their own physical, mental or emotional experiences. Understanding these cues allows for a deeper connection to the field and our Healing Partner's needs.

Cynthia Blackstone

Judith, keeps finding more and more joy as her career in Therapeutic Touch continues to flourish even after 40 years! She has been teaching for some 20 years, facilitates a Zoom practice group in Ladysmith on Vancouver Island, a biweekly TT Wellness Room for the community and the TT Wellness Room at the annual BC Elders Gathering held at the Vancouver Convention Centre.

Judith has been instrumental in introducing Therapeutic Touch to First Nations communities along the BC coast and had her first introduction to indigenous ways while on remote lighthouses of BC. “They taught me how to hunt, fish, and appreciate the gifts of Creator. This is my way of giving back for their incredible ways of nurturing, not only me, but the lands.”

Cynthia Blackstone is a member of the Ka:’yu:’k’t’h’/Che:k’tles7et’h’ First Nations (KCFN) and currently serves as their Chief Administrative Officer.

She and her husband reside in Houpsitas, a KCFN village located in Kyuquot on the Westcoast of Vancouver Island.

It was over 15 years ago that Cynthia fell in love with Therapeutic Touch, as a way to help herself, her family, and others, and especially loves the intuitiveness of TT.

Although she doesn’t professionally practice TT, it has become and will always be a part of her everyday life.
