Experience peace within

Contemporary research demonstrates that Therapeutic Touch® (TT) can promote relaxation, reduce anxiety and pain, and promote healing in self and others. TT is a gentle, holistic approach that supports the body's own natural healing resources. Using one's hands, variations in the human energy field are recognized and balance in the field is supported. Basic assumptions underlying the practice of TT, supporting theoretical frameworks, the TT process, and research are addressed. Through interaction, demonstration, practice, and dialogue you learn beginning skills in the process of Therapeutic Touch. This course supports the development of foundational skills for offering Therapeutic Touch to self, family, and friends.
